The Ancient site is spread over an area of five hectares & is thus probably one of the largest chalcolithicsite so far discovered in Maharashtra.
Volume-1: Part-1: by M.K.Dhavalikar, H.D. Sankalia, Z.D.Ansari,

Volume-1: Part-2: by Ditto.

Volume-2: The Physical Anthropology of Human Skeletal Remains.
Part-1: An Osteobiographic Analysis:by John R. Lukacs, and Subhash R. Walimbe.[the great potential valu of this segment of the skeletal evidence is often neglected in South Asian Palaeo – Anthropology. Several noteworthy features on discrete skeletal variations and the observations on skeletal & Dental pathology raised the possibility of conducting further studies on the health, dietary patterns,ecological stress and the biological affinities of the people of Inamgaon.Poona, 1986.Theneed for such a research project was enhanced after the brief visit of Dr. Lukacs [University of Oregon,Eugene, U.S.A.] during 1979. Poona, 1986-88. Size. 15/10 inches. Original Condition.Library Edition. Pp 1044, xx,xvi, 323,xvi. Over 1000 plates, graphs, tables, finds,maps,diagrams, etc. Karnataka.[Ph.D. Thesis entitled ! Geographic Studies of Palaeolithic settlements in the Ghataprabha Basin, Karnataka! On which she received Doctorate degree of the University of Poona]
By Raghunath S. Pappu, Sushama G. Deo,
The Set: Rs- 6000/-
12. The Acheulian Culture of the Hunsgi Valley: [Peninsular India] A Settlement Perspective: by K. Paddayya. With a foreword by J.Desmond Clark.

Pp 224, xvi, with plates, maps, temple architecture, plans. Rs. 900/-
20. Bagor and Tilwara: Late Mesolithic Cultures of Northwest India: Volume-1: The Human Skeletal Remains: by John R. Lukas, Virendra N. Mishra, Kenneth A. R. Kennedy, Part-1: Bagor: The Archaeological Setting, Part-2: Biological Anthropology of Human Skeletal Remains from Bagor : Osteology, Part-3: Biological Anthropology of Human Skeletal Remains from Bagor: Dentition, Poona, 1982. Size. 15/10 inches. Pp 86, vii, with graphic diagrams, with many plates, photographs. Rs. 800/-
21. Geoarchaeology of the Hiran Valley: Saurashtra, India: by Ashok R. Marathe. The hiran valley was selected as a type area for detailed geoarchaeological studies, although similar environments occur in the other parts of southern saurashtra, e.g. the valleys of the shingoda, saraswati, machhu and meghal rivers and also along the coast [from bhavnagar to girnar]with present environment, field and laboratory studies, geoarchaeology, epilogue, bibliography Index. Poona, 1981. size. 15/10 inches. Pp 130, xvi, with 22 tables, 22 plates, and 59 figures. Rs. 900/-
22. Silver Jubilee Series: 41:
Pre- and Proto – History of the Research Basin South Rajasthan; : by V.N. Misra, In the Present work, the first of its kind for Rajasthan, & for the Statistical approach to tools in India, Dr. Misra Gives the Results of his further exploration in South –Eastern Rajasthan. This Prelude as well as a gazetteer of proto – historic sites helps to establish continuous links between Gujart in the south, Madhya Pradesh in the east & Punjab in the north right from the Early Stone Age Through Middle Stone Age up to Copper Age. Poona, 1967. size 15/10 inches. Pp 216, xx, with 42 tables, with 22 plates, with 67 figures, plans. Rs. 1500/-
23. Pleistocene Studies in the Upper Krishna Basin. By R.S. Pappu. [Dr. Pappu's Investigations in the middle reaches of Krishna in Karnataka [Kaladgi region] stand in contrast to his findings in the upper reaches. The Pleistocene Deposits are very well preserved in the fault affected trough valleys of the Tapi & Narmada. In other river valleys, the Pleistocene deposits also show good development & are found to occur throughout the river courses irrespective of variations in topography, climate & lithology. Three Stone Age cultures, viz. early, middle and late are now well established in different parts of the country. . . . Poona, 1974. Royal Size. Pp 160, xii, with 8 plates, 24 text figures, graphs, tables, plans. Etc. Rs. 750/-

24. Prehistory and Protohistory of INDIA & PAKISTAN: by H.D.SANKALIA
Presents in this new Edition a critical account of the prehistory & protohistory of the Indian sub-continent covering a period of nearly half a million years. In fact, much of the new information is based on his own work- Excavations & Explorations - and of his colleagues & pupils at the Deccan College since 1963.

With the new discoveries & on the –spot studies in Kashmir, Konkan, Kutch, Saurashtra & South Gujarat, South Uttar Pradesh, South Bihar & West Bengal. Important additions have been made to the Mesolithic by the Excavations at Bagor, Tilwara [Rajasthan], etc. The Section on Baluchistan has been Completely Re-written; that on Sistan and Afghanistan added, basing on the latest discoveries at Shahr-I- Sokhta. The Section on the Indus Civilization or Harappa culture has become richer with the addition of the evidence from the excavations at Kalibangan & Surkotada [India], & Kot Diji, Gumla, etc in Pakistan. All the statements are fully documented; a comprehensive bibliography & a detailed index are included. The text is lavishly illustrated by 340 line drawings, maps & halftone plates. The Appendices give an up-to date statement of cereals in West Asia, India, Pakistan & Southern Asia & c-14 dates in India & Pakistan. First Published, 192-63, New Edition 1974> Size. 20/15 inches. Big size. Pp 592, xxvi, many maps, plates, text figures, over 340 plates, illustrations. Rs.2500/- [Weight approximately 4.500 Grams]

In all, 1608 men & about fifty women were measured. Analysis of variance, blood group tables, skin colour, eye colour, etc.] Poona, 1948. Royal Size. Pp 72, vii, with many photographs, Rs. 480/-
34. Pleistocene Fauna of India: with special reference to the Siwaliks.
By G.L. Badam [Vertebrate Paleontologist] these interdisciplinary research strategies have produced a comprehensive picture of the habits & habitats of extinct animals & their relationship with early Man. The Siwalik Hills and Narmada valley by virtue of the enormous wealth of animal remains have created an interest in the life of the past. This book presents evidence for the morphological changes in various animals from the plio-pleistocene transition to about 20,000 years B.P. mainly interested in Quaternary Fauna, he has worked on Faunal material from most important fossiliferous sites in India. He has conducted field research in the Karewas of Kashmir; the Siwaliks of the Punjab & Himachal Pradesh; River valleys of Narmada, Godavari & Krishna in Peninsular India. He has published some fifty research papers on the morphology, biometrical analysis, chronology, paleo-environment, migration & evolution of vertebrate Fauna.

Part-1: The Karewas of Kashmir, with previous work,

Part-2: Siwaliks of North India, with previous work,

Part-3: The Fossiliferous localities of peninsular India: Narmada valley, Mahanadi Valley, Godavari Valley, Manjra valley, The Ghod valley, Krishna Valley, The Kurnool Caves, Some More Fossil Discoveries,

Pune, 1st ed. 1979. Code: M 187, Size: 15/10 inches. Original condition. Pp 250, xxxii, with 57 plates, 51 figures, 25 tables, folded maps, plans, with cover photographs. Rs. 1800/-

35. Human Skeletal Remains from Chalcolithic and Indo-Roman Levels from Nevasa: An Anthropometric and Comparative Analysis. By Kenneth A.R. Kennedy, M.Sc., Ph.D. Asst. Prof: Cornell University, U.S.A. & Kailash Chandra Malhotra, M.Sc., Ph.D. Lect. Anthropology, Deccan College, This monograph describes in detail all the adult Human Skeletal remains Found at Nevasa, Dist: Ahmednagar, Maharashtra, During the Excavations conducted by the Institute between 1954 & 1961. These are spread over a large area, Some 80,000 Sq. ft., or a grid 205 squares, each square being 20ft. by 20 ft. making it very clear that in the Chalcolithic times, the area was both a habitation-cum-cemetery. Thus there is survival, or a continuation, both a physical types and burial practices from Harappan to the end of the Chalcolithic times, that is far a period stretching from about 2,500 B.C. to 1,000 B.C. This is an important conclusion, though we should note the striking differences in material culture of the Harappans, and the Nevasians, for instance. With Biochemical Analysis of BONE Samples, Disposal of the Dead at Nevasa & at other Contemporary Sites, Reference to Anthropometric Methodology. Poona, 1966. Building Centenary & Silver Jubilee Series: 55: Size 15/10 inches. Pp 136, x. with 11 tables, 8 graphs, 16 diagrams, 18 photographs, figures, folded tables. Rs. 900/-

36. LATE HINAYANA CAVES OF WESTERN INDIA: by M.K. Dhavalikar, Prof: of Archaeology & Joint Director, With a detailed examination of the caves which I date to the Late Hinayana Period in the 2nd & 3rd Century A.D. This Monograph Contains an extensive study of the Late Hinayana Caves & Shows that the Rock-Cut Activity did not abruptly stop, as is generally supposed, at the close of the 2nd century A.D. but continued even in the third and partly in the 4th century. This fills in, to a great extent, the hiatus between the Hinayana & Mahayana phases of Rock cut Architecture, the evidence for which is furnished

- by such insignificant caves at Kuda, Mahad, Shelarwadi, Karad & other Sites. They Also constitutes the Precursors of the Mahayana Viharas & Ajanta. Poona, 1984. Code No: M- 200. Size. 15/10 inches. [Junnar, Karas & other Caves, Kuda-Mahad – Shelarwadi, Kanheri, Viharas & Mandapas, index] Pp 85, xii, 73 figures, with over 80 plates, plans, sketches, index. Rs. 900/-
37. Quaternary Environment and Stone Age Cultures of the Konkan: Coastal Maharashtra, India: by Statira Guzder. Archaeological discoveries in the Konkan, prior to the Present Work include: Palaeolithic sites at Kandivli, Bombay [Todd, 1932, 1939]; Mesolithic sites around Bombay [Todd, 1959]; Palaeolithic sites in the Bombay & Satara Dist: [Malik, 1959], & Palaeolithic Artefacts, & two Mesolithic Cave sites in Kobala & Ratnagiri Dist [Joshi & Bopardikar, 1972] More detailed studies on prehistory & the palaeoenvironment, since classic monograph of De Terra & Peterson [1939] Include work in Gujarat [Zeuner, 1950], Gujarat & Rajasthan [Allchin et al. 1978], Karnataka [Josh, 1955; Pappu, 1974 & Paddayya, 1971, 1977] Western Maharashtra [Rajguru, 1970 & Corvinus et al. 1973], Etc. Poona, 1980. Code M. 190: Size. 15/10 inches. Pp 102, xi with 34 plates, 34 figures, maps, graphs, many plans. Rs. 900/-
38. Recent Advances in Indian Archaeology: Proceedings of the Seminar Held in Poona in 1983: Edited by S.B. Deo & K. Paddayya. Organized by dept. of archaeology of this inst. On 11th & 12th Dec, 1983. Contents: List of participants, Indian Archaeology in 1983- As I See it- H.D. Sankalia, Theoretical Archaeology – A review – K. Paddayya, Cultural Ecology of Early Man in India- G.C. Mohapatra, Cultural Ecology of the Neolithic in India- A Sundara, Late Harappan Cultures – Y.M. Chitalwala, Cultural Ecology of Chalcolithic Maharashtra – M.K. Dhavalikar, The Issues of the Indian Iron Age – D.K. Chakravarti, The Megaliths: their Culture, ecology, Economy & Technology- S.B. Deo, Scientific Studies in Indian Archaeology – K.T.M. Hegde, Daulatabad – M.S. Mate, Recent Epigraphical Discoveries at KANHERI – S. Gokhale. Poona, 1985: Code: M- 201: Size. 15/10 inches. Pp 116, xii, with 28 plates, maps, cakras etc. index. Rs. 900/-
39. Excavations at Kayatha: by Z.D. Ansari, & M.K. Dhavalikar, present report on The excavations at Kayatha which were conducted in 1968. Dept. Archaeology by Above Authors. The Excavations at Kayatha have proved to be of great importance because they have carried back the antiquity of the farming communities of Central India to the beginning of Second millennium B.C. The earliest culture at the site – labelled as the Kayatha culture- [circa 2000- 18000 B.C.], Ahar culture [circa 1700 – 1500 B.C.], Malwa Culture [circa 1500 – 1200 B.C.], Early Historic [circa 600 – 200 B.C.], Sunga – Kushan – Gupta [circa 200 B.C. – 600 A.D.] thus appears to be a junior contemporary of the Harappan culture.... Pune, 1975. Code No: 176: Size. 15/10 inches. Pp 164, vii, with 28 plates, 85 figures, folded plans, maps. Etc. Rs. 1200/-

40. Apegaon Excavation: [Report of the Excavation at Apegaon 1976]: by S.B.Deo, M.K.Dhavalikar, Z.D. Ansari, With Topical Contributions - by G.L.Badam & M.D. Kajale, { early in 1976, the prehistory section of department of Archeology, Deccan College, in their explorations of the Paithan region, reported The find of a small habitational mound & brought to Poona surface collection of pottery strewn over the mound.
This Collection was interesting inasmuch as it contained besides the wellknown MALWA & JORWE fabrics, black-and red of protohistoric tradition as also a very distinctive drab Red ware with crackled surfaces & painting in black or ochre red or dull white. Apparently the colour of the painting was the resultant of uneven firing displaying blotchy surface. .. Poona, 1979. Size. 15/10 inches. Code No: M 186, pp 56, vii, 9 plates, 17 figures, maps, plans, some colour plates. Rs. 800/-

Excavation Report by the Deccan College in the winter 1984- 85 & 1987 – 1990.
Burials provides a uniquely rich source of material to Archaeologists for reconstructing the lifeways of ancient societies. They not only yield physical remains of human populations but also cultural materials like intact pottery vessels, valuable Ornaments, besides tools and weapons not always encountered in habitation areas. In India although burials are known from the mesolithic period onwards. They are particularly numerous in the Iron Age, especially in the southern part of the Peninsula. Because of the association of large stones with most of these burials they have been designated megalithic.
