Following Books Published by The Mithila Institute of Post Graduate Studies & Research in Sanskrit Learning: Darbhanga: SUBJECT: BUDDHISM: [BUDDHIST SANSKRIT TEXT SERIES:

1. Buddhist Sanskrit Texts: No:2: Samadhirajasutra: Edited by Dr.P.L.Vaidya.[the Samadhirajasutra, also known as Candrapradipa Sutra, is one of the Nine Dharmas of Nepalese Buddhism. It is held in high esteem in the Mahayana school as embodying the highest teachings of lord Buddha both in ethics & philosophy. The Chinese & Santideva prefer the name Candrapradipa to Samadhiraja, while Prajnakara uses both the names as if they were different texts. Candrakirti invariably uses the Samadhiraja as also the Tibetan translators who preserve the full title in Sanskrit, viz. Sarvadharmasvabhava-samatavipan-cita Samadhiraja. Present edition is based on the text and foot notes of Dr. Nalinakksa Dutta edition Dharbhanga, 1st.ed. 1961, first ed. Royal size. Pp 376.xx.,vi, with English introduction, etc. Rebound. some pages, sl. pin-holes. Rs.1500/-

2. Buddhist Sanskrit Text; No:4: Astasahasrika Prajnaparamita: with Haribhadra's Commentary Called Aloka: which also embodies the text of Abhisamayalamkara of Arya Maitreyanatha. This commentary on the text is a mine of information although this commentary is written from the point of view of yogacara or Vijnanavada School of Buddhists, it has referred to several other commentators from his own school as well as from the Madhyamika school which is there designated as EKANAYAVADIN. Haribhadra often refers to previous Commentators by phrases like Purvacharya Anyey, Aparey, Arsham and also to names like Nagarjuna and Aryadeva from the Madhyamika School.

Edited by P.L.Vaidya: [this edition based on six Mss. Five of which were obtained by different scholars from Nepal & one was a Bengali transcript of a Nepalese original. the oldest dated Ms. bears the date 1061 A.D.] with sloka suchi, sabda-kosa, sutradinama suchi, Alokasthaslokadvaranasuchi, etc Darbhanga, first ed. 1960. royal size. rebound. pp 580,xxxvii, Rs. 1500/-

Vol-1 edited by Sitanshusekhara Bagchi. [with English introduction, Mulasarvastivada-vinaya-vastu ka saransa, Bhaishjya, chivara, kathina, Koshambaka, Karma VASTU.

Sloka suchi, reference to the parallel passages, sabda –suchi, corrigenda]

It would not be irrelevant of a few words about the nature & scope of the MULASAR-

-VASTIVADA VINAYA.the text goes to define how the unity of the SANGHA was disrupted just after the few years of the Parrinirvana of the Thagata.

Further it remarks that the MONKS were confused in regard to the real meaning of the DHAMMA. The CEYLONESE chronicle makes it clear that the BUDDHIST SANGHA was passing through the internal conflict & disorder.

On the Whole,the conditions were not favourable to the SANGHA. Lastly ,it came to be divided into the TWENTY DIFFERENT GROUPS.

EACH of theGROUP CLAIMED to have preserved the Original Teachings Buddhas.
